Dispute About Amended Entries, &c.

The appearance of the Custom House yesterday was desolate in the extreme. The large circular hall was almost empty, and many of the clerks were idle. The brokers looked as lugubrious as a boy who lost a dollar and picked up a nut. They had no business, and consequently no pecuniary receipts. The dull appearance of the Custom House was ascribed to various causes. One asserted that it arose from the fact that no vessels of importance had arrived during the mat few days.

importance had arrived during the past few days. "But why is it that no vessels have arrived?" "Because there is no trade." "Why is there no trade?"

Various reasons. The crisis, the administration, the fariff—that's the cause."

"It's all very well of you, but the tariff is no joke to the importer, nor is this want of business."

"Well, as we have nothing better to do, we had better be seeing how we can evade the nuisance. I have just thought of a plan by which I can save fifty dollars in one ting their heads and their ideas together.

A case of dispute came up relative to an entry of "gar-under that name.

"This," said the clerk, "must pay 20 per cent as an unenumerated manufactured article."

"Nonsense," said the importer; "garancine is extract of madder, and that is free."

"How can we tell whether R be extract of madder

"We must search for the documents;" and after the Bearch, the merchant's assertion was verified.

ticles, crude, used in dyeing, is admitted free; but not a word is stated in the tariff regarding articles not crude tions they are all charged at 20 per cent.

A cotton entry, rated by the square inch test, came before the entry clerks. The invoice stated 1,050 square yards of unbleached cotton, valued at $150. The actual duty upon the import was $15 75, or about ten and a half per cent upon the value. The deposit required was 45 per cent. This certainly appears very unjust to the importer, especially when the invoice is so explicit regard ng all the minutice of the particulars.

The Collector's decision in a case of trouble is still pendtity of sugars, say one thousand pounds, is damaged ofty per cent. The tariff states that sugars shall pay three quarters of a cent per pound. The question of dis-pute was whether the duty should be charged on the sugar completely ruined—being totally unsalcable. In one or two instances the duty has been charged on the whole weight, but yesterday a clause in the act of March 2,1799, was hunted up relative to the question. Section fifty two distinctly states that an allowance shall be for damage or deficiency, whether the goods pay duty by the ad valorem or specific rates. The matter is still in abeyance; but this law is said to be still unrepealed. If so it must be acted upon.

The Amendment Clerk had a little trouble with some of the importers regarding the following:—Taking one of the putes, our reporter found that an entry was made out and passed embracing reveral invoices. A sample case was sent from each invoice to 12 Broad street for appraisement. In three of the invoices there were errors in the amount of duties paid. The remainder were

"No," replied the clerk, "there are errors in three of the invoices, and nothing can be delivered till the whole

But can't I have those that are right?

"No; I have received instructions to the contrary."
"Do you think the merchants will stand that kind of I have sold one of the cases, and shall lose the sale if I cannot deliver it."

"I have no discretion in the matter," was the reply:

THE CROWDS AT TRINITY BUILDING—THE ANXIOUS MULTITUDE—A SMALL PIECE OF DECIDED INFORMATION—INTERESTING TO THE INS AND THE OUTS, ETC., ETC.

Trinity Building was more anxiously inquired for and sought after yesterday than almost any other building on Broadway. The office of the firm of Barney & Co. was next the object of much solicitude, especially those who had one particular object in visiting the behalf glass door, the next search was after the Secretary. who having been found, the applicants at once pro ceeded to business as fast as they could. Fortunately the gentleman behind the table—with the letters—had something definite yesterday to say in answer to appli-

Mr. Barney will make no appointments for one month," was the stereotyped answer that he was enabled to give to every one who yesterday applied personally.

Of course there were all kinds of maneuvres made to get something more definite, but although the Secretary was as obliging as he could possibly be in the way of answering queries, still nothing more decided could be ascertained from that gentleman, therefore the applicants had to be contented therewith, having at least one satisfaction, that if the Secretary's information was cor rect, they still had a chance to buttonhole Mr. Barney on the first opportunity, and one they certainly believed would occur before the month had expired.

Amorg persons who applied yesterday was one who bore a note of introduction from a recently appointed minister. Of course the fortunate holder of the document not only saw the Secretary, but also gained admission to the sanctum sanctorum of the "conquering hero" himself. What a good thing it is for applicants, when they can bring to the chief of the department they wish to enter a prima facie evidence of their acquaintanse with great men-and our recently appointed ministers to fore ga parts are great men, for the office, like the tailor, occasionally makes the man.

Another applicant, an elderly man, presented his docu ments to the Secretary, who placed them with a numbe of others lying on the table, at the same time making some remark relative to the fact that no appoint would be made for a month.

Shad I leave my papers?" said the applicant.

"I will not say leave them or take them," was the re-ply; "but they will be placed with other applications." "Can I write to Mr. Barney" asked the applicant.

"Oh, certainly," was the reply, and the owner of the documents was handed a sheet of paper and a nine-inch Down sat the applicant, with a quill pen in his hand, and wrote the notable Collector. Not being a medium, our reporter did not know what he wrote, but of course our readers are at liberty to guess the contents if they please. At this particular time there were a dozen persons writing, and if the Collector has to supply paper and envelopes to the applicants, it may be good natured, but it may also prove expensive, especially under the new tarul rates. As has been before stated the applicants were many, and formed a splendld study for a physicgnomist. Here would be a man with a high, noble forchead, a clear countenance, and an honest expression, who would be followed by another with a sharp hawk like nose, pierc ting eye, and prominent marks of cunning clearly dis-played. A third would present a want of calcula-tive powers, almost a total lack of ability to add two to two. The fourth would have a slooching gait, a restless gaze, and an apparent want of firmness in his manners. The fifth would be nervous, and occupy most of his time looking out of the window, reading the inscriptions on the temperature. Fires in New York.

DANGERS OF LIVING IN TENEMENT HOUSES—TWO DARING ATTEMPTS TO BURN THE BUILDINGS. On Friday evening, about nine o'clock, an attempt was made to fire the new six story tenement house, No. 102 Ridge street, occupied by twenty-four families. The besement in front is occupied by Simon Saley as a dwelling and meat market, and the passage way in the dwelling and meat market, and the passage way in the cellar is used in part by him to hang up meat. A dog is also kept chained in that part of the cellar. At the hour above named Mr. Saley heard his dog barking furiously, and as he entered the premises he was met by a man rushing into the street. On proceeding to the cellar he found a quantity of shavings against one of the wood bins, and also some matches, and some of them partly burned. Fortunately the barking of the dog frightened the incendiary, and he was compelled to leave before consum gating his wicked design. Had this fire gotten under headway many lives would have been sacrificed. The building has only been completed about five months, and was built under the new law against unsafe buildings, and without any fire escape.

At between two and three o'clock on Saturday morning officer Combs, of the Sixth precinct, discovered a fire in the hall on the second floor of the tenement building No. 37 Mulberry street, occupied by twelve families. He immediately aroused the inmates of the house, and with their help extinguished the fire, but not until a large portion of the partition was destroyed. The incendiary had placed a large bag of paper and some boards against the partition and then set fire to them. The timely discovery of the fire no doubt prevented a loss of life, for all the occupants of the building were asleep.

RECKIESS USE OF FIREARMS—Short BY A DEPUTY SHERREY.—At an early hour yesterday morning, Redmond McManus, a deputy sheriff, entered the coffee and cake saloon No. 36 Bowery, in company with a friend named Davenport, a deputy sheriff, entered the coffee and cake saloon No. 36 Bowery, in company with a friend named Davenport, to get some refreshments. McManus, who was intoxicated at the time, took a seat at one of the tables near the door, and commenced a conversation with his friend about his great shooting powers. Drawing a revolver from his pocket, he offered to bet that he could extinguish a gas light in the rear of the store at the veryfirst fire. Davenport seemed a little skeptical on the point, when McManus, without more ado, cocked the weapon and fired. As might be naturally expected, the builet went wide of the mark, and lodged harmiesally in the wall. The failure to extinguish the light did not appear to sifect McManus much; he put up his pistol, and quietly ate his refreshments, as though nothing had happened. While standing at the bar, however, and when about to pay for the coffee and cakes, McManus drewforth the pistel a second time, and without saying a word fired a random shot towards the rear of the saloon. The cries of some one in distress immediately followed the report of the pistol, and upon investigation it was found that the ball had taken effect upon the person of a man named Hogan. The wounded man, who was sitting in the rear of the saloon, will am shot; that is the man who shot me—wrest him." The noise occasioned by the shooting attracted the attention of policeman Muldoon, of the Sixth precinct, who arrived just in time to arrest McManus as he was promptly conveyed to the Tenth precinct station house, and from there to the New York Hospital, where the surgeon in attendance pronounced the wound to be a danger ous one, and recommended that the perpetuor, and recommended the builter was found to be completely flattened. The prisoner, on being brought before Justice Welsh, at the Tombs, yesterday, was committed to await the result of flogan's injury, was committed to await the result of flogan's injury in flotted will not prove fatal. Hilarious with liberty, the irrepressible conclusion. Hilarious with liberty, the irrepressible hero pitched into his favorite Broad way resort, and meet ing there with detective Hogan, soon found a pretext fo pitching into him. The officer at first accepted of the proferce hand of Mr. Muligan, and, after expressing his pleasure at seeing him affoat, hoped he had been treate well while in the State prison. Muligan, however, a conce took fire at this recollection, and bearing indignantly in mind how the barbarians of that catablishmen had despoiled him of hair and whiskers, he denounce it all the officers thereunto belonging as an unnitigated band of thieves. Officer Hogan mildly protested that he guessed the officials referred to were not all theves, as guessed the efficials referred to were not all thieves, as he had some triends among them whom he knew to be decent men. "Thieves, thieves, all thieves," exclaimed the trate Mulligan again, accompanying the emphatic declaration with the information that if he (Mr. Hogan) again attrapted to sunb him (Mulligan) he (Mulligan) would break his (Hogan's) head. The keeper of the restaurant now interfered, whereupon he was threatened with a fracture of the jaw. Officers interfered, and no demage was done.

A Word to House Owners and Agents.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

As the Essuald is the principal medium of advertising Houses to let," &c . I desire to suggest a very de-"Houses to let," &c., I desire to suggest a very decided improvement that should be made in this class of advertisements. The amount of rent per annum asked for the premises should be stated in every case. Advertisements, as they now read, cause a great deal of unccessary trouble. If the price were given then every one would know whether it would be worth while to look at the premises. It is really provoking to ride forty squares to see a small lottage bouse which you had good reason to expect, from the air-erticed description, would not exceed $560 a year, and find the price $500. And more especially should she price of reat be mattioned of country houses. This suggestion is made by one who has had some expecience to bouse builting, and it is hoped will be heeded by those who advertise houses to let. T.

PORTABLE GAS LIGHTER -A MOST CONVENIENT A PORTABLE GAS LIGHTER—A MOST CONVENIENT and yet very simple instrument, has just been introduced by Messars MITCHELL, VANCE & OO, manufacturers of Gas Fixtures, 620 Broadway, to light gue burners. It is simply an electric machine on a small scale: a brass rod about twives inches long, with an insculated handle, on which a small glass disc revolves between two little pads of leather. All that is necessary is to give a serse at the side of the burner, and the gas is lighted tostantamedusly. All the inconvenience and danger of matches is obviated, and any one can use the instrument with perfect case and safety. It needs only to be seen and tried to laye its merits at ones appreciated and recommended to general use.

building, and terminating at the base of the want issue. Here they commenced their operations upon a large scalar, and after removing the front part of the heavy starting exacts, and after removing the front part of the heavy starting and they have been stone, which was strongly laid in cement, they reached the large flag atone which formed the floor of the Vault. This stone was broken by means of a jack scewer of great power, and the interior of the Vault thus reached.

Your Safe now became the great point of attack, and bravely did it resist every effort, holding, secure its entire trust (property amounting to $500,000 against all the tools and ingenuity of the burglars.

The first great aim seemed to be to drill into the Safe, but although some thirty holes were made in the outer casing, the hardened iron forming the centre lining turned the point of every tool. Disappointed here, they now attempted to dissect, the safe, and endeavored to force the strong framework apart. After removing one har and partially cutting off another they gave this up, and all further operations proved unavailing. Cur confidence in your safe has been reassured, and we would further add, for the benefit of the public and tay the credit, that had they even succeeded in getting through that the more or the safe, which they did not da, but there over our public, would have given them must considered, the cup passurily to work from Saidrays night to Mondays morning, the great number of these burglars are considered, the cippassurily to work from Saidrays night to Mondays morning, the great number of the best kind of tools in their possession, and the skill and ingenuity displayed, we harve reason to feel proud of your Safe.
